

Somerton Dwelling Defines the Casual Craze

Corona, CA., April 16, 2016 – Classic and cozy casual is the new style trend being embraced by both Millennials and Baby Boomers. Its timeless appeal easily blends with all decorating styles to offer a comfortable laid back look that is made for relaxing or entertaining friends. The low-maintenance distressed finishes like weathered woods combined with neutral gray and dark wood finishes are made for daily living. Here are a few examples:

From the mountains to the coast the hefty Harbor Town family room tables in Tahoe or two-tone Bay Mist finishes (shown right) are the perfect accent for lodges or beach houses. The unexpected lower shelf is ideal for added storage. Add subtly patterned upholstered ottomans to not only soften the room but also use as an extra seat or footrest.

Classic Peppercorn or Sea Salt (aka black or white) exemplify Serra's cottage-inspired charm in these fun-loving tables. Add a serving tray to the upholstered ottomans to make them pull double duty as a hostess table too.

The popular trend of mixing finishes is easy with the Sophie family tables. Go for the Chicory finish to create a classic look or for a more updated expression the Reclamation grey finish is the winner. Be even more daring and mix the two in the same room. The writing desk with a drop down drawer front makes working nothing like work.

At home in the big city loft or small apartment is the Phoenix group of industrial-inspired tables with Smoked Pewter decorative legs combined with Mushroom-finished wood tops and shelves. Their light and airy design serves smaller rooms without overwhelming them.

Go casual or dress it up, Upton's contemporary inspiration and symmetry is perfect to mix with transitional or traditional rooms. The clean lines, rich Single Malt finish and decorative signet gold frame-like hardware on the family room tables offers a highly sophisticated look and proves the point that less is more.
